

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The semiconductor memory device includes two PMOS transistors that make the SRAM memory cell. The gate insulating films of these PMOS transistors are formed using a material that has a high permittivity. As a result, the capacitance of memory nodes is increased, and the probability of soft errors is lowered.